

THROUGH AT SEASHORE

Memorial Day Takes Many Persons to Atlantic City.

PLAN TWO MARINE PARADES

Hundred Inlet Yachts and as Many More Private Launches Will Participate in the Review—Justice Brewer Will Address the State Bar Association During His Stay.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 28.—Memorial Day has brought to the seashore a great throng of people from Washington and other cities in the South. Heavy incoming travel, coupled with perfect weather, has filled hotels, and the Boardwalk gathering, which will spend the national holiday here, is the largest yet known in this city of big holiday throngs.

Preparations for a general celebration are complete, and some special recognition of the day of the Blue and the Gray is shown in almost every hotel in the way of special festivity in the nature of a dance, a concert, or some afternoon diversion.

A hundred inlet yachts and as many more private launches are in commission and will participate in the two marine parades, which are to be the public features of the day's observance.

Apartment houses have been engaged for Justice Brewer, of the United States Supreme Court, at the Hotel Chelsea. Justice Brewer will be here next week, and during his stay will address the New Jersey State Bar Association.

Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Fulton, of Washington, have a suite at the Ostend for a month's stay.

The Hesperus, Magnolia, Mass.

Located on the fashionable North Shore of Massachusetts, twenty-five miles from Boston, is the attractive Hotel Hesperus, at Magnolia. The Hesperus will be under the management this season of Mrs. C. G. Francis, who has successfully conducted for several years the exclusive apartment hotel on Commonwealth avenue, Boston, known as the Abbotsford. At once this is a guarantee that the Hesperus will be conducted in such a manner as to appeal strongly to guests of particular taste, while a refined atmosphere will pervade the hotel.

Magnolia is only nine miles from Beverly, which has been selected by President Taft as his summer home, and in consequence should prove an attractive resort for Washingtonians. Situated on the rock-bound coast of Massachusetts, commanding a superb view of the ocean, where seashore and country form a delightful panorama, and surrounded by an exclusive cottage colony, a distinction which Magnolia has long enjoyed to an exceptional degree, makes the Hesperus singularly desirable.

As the hotel has all modern improvements, including electric, elevator, lights, elevator, communicating rooms with bath, music hall, and orchestra that is engaged throughout the season, from June to September, it affords every possible advantage. Yachting, bathing, fishing, and all water sports may be enjoyed to their fullest extent, as well as golf, tennis, and numerous other outdoor sports. Briefly, it is an ideal hotel at an ideal resort.

West Point House, Prouts Neck, Me.

Occupying an ideal location on the south coast of Maine is the West Point House, at Prouts Neck which commands an uninterrupted view of the ocean. Refreshing sea breezes prevail on the warmest days in summer, thus making the atmosphere exceptionally cool and enjoyable, and as the house is provided with a broad piazza, extending around three sides, the guests can always find comfort when desired.

The scenery from this point is unusually attractive, as it affords an excellent view of Saco Bay, and the rugged coast can be seen for many miles. Beautiful groves of pine trees abound in this vicinity, making the air healthful and adding much to the contentment of the tourist.

Excellent facilities for surf bathing are afforded by the numerous long, white, sandy beaches, while the angler can enjoy himself hugely in the neighboring waters.

There are golf links, tennis courts, and a country club house only a short distance from the West Point House, the privileges of which may be enjoyed by the guests.

The dairy farm products are supplied from its own farms, located near the house, so that the table is always bountifully supplied with fresh vegetables. Complete information concerning the West Point House may be obtained by addressing Mr. R. R. Jordan, the proprietor.

Peaks Island House.

The Maine coast has long been famous for its numerous islands that are favorite resorts for the summer tourist. The Peaks Island House is delightfully located on Peak Island and is reached from Portland, Me., in fifteen minutes' sail on the comfortable island steamers.

On land completely surrounded by water, the air is always cool and invigorating. If the summer traveler has never had the good fortune to visit Saco Bay, where Peaks Island is located, one of the most picturesque spots in America has been missed in his poem. "My Lost Youth." Longfellow alludes to the emerald gems with which this beautiful sheet of water is so richly endowed as "islands that were the Hesperides of all my boyish dreams." The metaphor, so characteristic of Longfellow, is most happily chosen, for truly the enchanting islands of Hesperides could have been no more beautiful or alluring than are the islands of Saco Bay in the glory of their summer foliage.

Peaks Island combines more of the attractions which appeal to the varied individual tastes than in any other single island of the bay, and its popularity as judged by the number of its visitors is any proof of this, it is easily entitled to be called the "Queen of Saco Bay." Bathing, boating, and deep-sea fishing may be indulged in to their fullest extent, while guests at the Peaks Island House and annex, which opens early in June, may be assured of the personal attention of the management, which for the past six years has been under the very successful direction of Mr. R. E. Rowe.

Marshall House, York Harbor, Me.

The Marshall House, York Harbor, Me., commands an exceptionally picturesque view of the entire Atlantic seaboard, and will open this year on June 25, under the very capable proprietorship of the owner, Mr. Edward S. Marshall, who has conducted the house very successfully for many years. The spacious rooms and large piazzas afford every desired comfort and enjoyment of the summer guests, who not only have the advantages of the seashore, but of the country as well, as there are many beautiful drives in this vicinity. Every form of outdoor amusement, including surf bathing, boating, canoeing, tennis, golf, and various other sports, may be indulged in here to their fullest extent. The York Country Club is only a short distance away, where the guests of the house may enjoy the privileges of the club. During the past year the cove in front of the Marshall House has been inclosed by the construction of a dam, which makes a four-acre bathing pool, also suitable for canoeing. This makes a notable addition to the many features to be enjoyed at this most healthful and delightful resort.

While you think of it, telephone your Want Ad. to The Washington Herald, and bill will be sent you at 1 cent a word.

The Jocelyn, Prouts Neck, Me.

Is a thoroughly modern hotel, located directly on the beach, every room having a fine ocean view, where cool breezes are always obtainable. Prouts Neck is delightfully situated on the beautiful coast of Maine, overlooking Saco Bay, and within ten miles of Portland, and can be reached by rail from Washington in twelve hours. The scenery in this locality is extremely inspiring, as the rugged cliffs, powerful surf, shattered coves and bays, and wooded hills form a perfectly delightful combination of seashore and country.

The Jocelyn House immediately adjoins the bathing beach, which is one of the most popular rendezvous for the summer guests. Boating, fishing, and golf, together with the privileges of the new Country-Club house, afford plenty of diversion for those possessing unlimited activity, while the thickly wooded paths in the vicinity of the hotel appeal to lovers of nature and those who seek quiet, restful spots.

The sanitary arrangements of the Jocelyn are modern in every respect, and the house is lighted by electricity throughout. Elevator service day and night is a great convenience. The rooms are large and comfortable, and broad piazzas add to the popularity of the house, which increases from year to year. Continuing this year under the ownership-management of Mrs. Frank B. Libby, the welfare of the guests at the Jocelyn is always a matter of the first importance.

The Louisburg, Bar Harbor, Me.

Occupies a unique and delightful situation on Mount Desert Island, on the picturesque coast of Maine, within a few miles of Bangor. The Louisburg will open July 1 under the same management that has conducted the hotel for the past twenty years, namely, that of M. L. Balch. One of the most inviting features of Bar Harbor is its superb summer climate, while magnificent views of seashore and country unite to form a remarkable scenic effect.

Mountains rising abruptly from the sea and thickly wooded hills in the distance add materially to the grandeur of the surroundings, so that the scenery in this vicinity is unsurpassed on the Atlantic coast. The equipment of the Louisburg

The cuisine is of a high standard of excellence and suitable to the requirements of the most discriminating guests who have long been associated with the patronage of the Louisburg.

The Bellevue, Intervale, N. H.

Delightfully situated within full view of the celebrated White Mountains is the Bellevue and annex, at Intervale, N. H., which will open for guests this year on June 15, continuing under the well-known and successful management of J. A. Barnes' Sons.

The mountains always have a strong fascination for thousands of summer tourists, and that there is much to Intervale to appeal to those who are fond of nature's romantic scenery in this region is too well known to necessitate a full description of its beauty and grandeur. The location of the Bellevue affords the visitor to obtain an unobstructed view of Mount Washington and the whole Presidential Range, which is the largest and highest group of mountains in New England.

All modern conveniences, including rooms with private bath and electricity throughout, may be enjoyed at the Bellevue. The hotel is supplied with an abundance of pure and delicious spring water from the Hurricane Mountain reservoir near by. June and October are the two most attractive months in the White Mountains, owing to the rare beauties of the landscape, and special rates are made at this time. The roads for carriage driving and automobilizing are the finest in New Hampshire, and a first-class livery is maintained by the management of the Bellevue for the convenience of the guests.
